Good Morning Giovanni:

For the Rad Lab (MERL) section, I want you to know that the Seabrook Station (in Seabrook, New Hampshire) is now being routinely monitored, as of January, by our program after an 18 month lapse during a lab closure. Pilgrim Station (in Plymouth, Massachusetts) is being monitored with weekly and monthly environmental samples, a TLD program, and enhanced well monitoring for tritium. Also, the Vermont Yankee Station will soon be monitored on a monthly basis; and samples will start arriving in April. There is no need to amend any report for others. I just want you to know where these places are and what we have recently reinstated.

Tom Coulombe
